

A discussion about “Please, Don’t Bury Me Alive!/Por Favor, No Me Entierren Vivo!”, the first Chicano feature film ever made. Meet the filmmaker, Efraín Gutiérrez, and UCLA Chicano Studies Research Center Director, Chon Noriega. There will be select film clips and Q&A.

Efraín Gutiérrez directed and produced “Please, Don’t Bury Me Alive!” This film was recently inducted into the Library of Congress National Film Registry.

Chon A. Noriega is a professor in the UCLA Department of Film, Television, and Digital Media and director of the UCLA Chicano Studies Research Center.

Produced and directed by San Antonio-native Efraín Gutiérrez, Please, Don’t Bury Me Alive! takes a highly politicized and unflinching look at life in the Chicano barrios and the damage wreaked on communities by the Vietnam War. Largely forgotten for several decades, the film’s resurgence was largely thanks to the work of UCLA film scholar Chon Noriega, who spent nearly a decade tracking down Gutierrez in order to get his hands on an original print of the film.
