Shrouded in mystery and long the subject of debate, the amazing story of Loretta Velazquez, Confederate soldier turned Union spy, is one of the Civil War's most gripping forgotten narratives. A Cuban immigrant from New Orleans, Velazquez was one of the estimated 1000 women who secretly served as soldiers during the American Civil War. Who was she? Why did she fight? And what made her so dangerous that she has been virtually erased from history? Please join us at the CSRC for a special screening of this award-winning documentary about a woman, a myth, and the politics of national memory.

"REBEL explores ... how history censors and denies inconvenient truths."
- Loren King, *Boston Globe

"The film is a beauty." -Linda Wheeler, Washington Post

Organized by the CSRC and cosponsored by the UCLA César E. Chávez Department of Chicana/o Studies, the UCLA Division of Humanities, the UCLA Latin American Institute, the UCLA Department of Gender Studies, and Melnitz Movies
