I. DIRECTOR’S MESSAGE

The UCLA Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) was founded in 1969 with a commitment to foster multi-disciplinary research as part of the overall mission of the university. It is one of four ethnic studies centers within the Institute of American Cultures (IAC), which reports to the UCLA Office of the Chancellor. The CSRC is also a co-founder of the Inter-University Program for Latino Research (IUPLR, est. 1983), a consortium of Latino research centers that now includes twenty-five institutions dedicated to increasing the number of scholars and intellectual leaders conducting Latino-focused research. The CSRC houses a library and special collections archive, an academic press, externally-funded research projects, community-based partnerships, competitive grant and fellowship programs, and several gift funds. It maintains a public programs calendar on and off campus to extend its reach locally, nationally, and internationally. The CSRC also maintains strategic research partnerships with UCLA schools, departments, and research centers, as well as with major museums across the U.S. Since the 1970s the CSRC has held six positions for faculty that are appointed in academic departments—appointments that expand the center’s research capacity as well as the curriculum in Chicana/o studies across UCLA.

Highlights for 2015-16

- The CSRC organized and co-sponsored 63 public programs that were seen by over 30,503 people internationally. These events included CSRC-sponsored and co-sponsored conferences, symposia, lectures, book talks, film screenings, and exhibitions. CSRC on-campus events attracted 5,322 attendees; off-campus events brought in 25,183 attendees. Among the on-campus events were a groundbreaking conference on the Central American refugee crisis sponsored by CSRC donor Tamar Diana Wilson and a concert performance by Mexican popular singer Ely Guerra, who with the CSRC and IAC’s assistance, was named a UC Regents’ Lecturer for Fall 2015.

- In 2015-16, over 2,500 people visited the CSRC Library. This represents an increase in number of approximately 1,500 visitors compared to the preceding academic year. These numbers do not include attendees of public programs in the library.

- The CSRC Open House and Special Events attendance increased to 1,042 in 2015-16 from 402 in 2014-15. Film and Video screenings attendance increased to 621 in 2015-16 from 211 in 2014-15.

- The CSRC held its 10th annual Latina/o Education Summit. A milestone for the Chicano Education Research Project led by principal investigator Carlos Manuel Haro, PhD, this year’s conference explored how educational access and opportunity for Latina/o students in California has changed since the first summit in 2006. The conference was co-sponsored by the UCLA Graduate School of Education and Information Sciences. GSEIS Dean Marcello Suárez-Orozco delivered the keynote address.
- Four (4) new special collections, plus 1 historic artwork and 1 mounted offset duplicate of it were donated to the CSRC Library, increasing the number of CSRC special collections to 179. The historic artwork, a piece of public art from 1988 by David Avalos, Luis Hock, and Elizabeth Sisco, was permanently installed in the Haines Hallway for public viewing.

- Monica Lozano, UC Regent and former owner of La Opinión, donated 170 linear feet of material from the newspaper’s archive, approximately 50 percent of which is sports-related photographs from the 1970s and 1980s.

- Forty-three (43) articles in the news media mentioned the CSRC, including the Los Angeles Times, The New York Times, ARTFORUM, and CNN.

- As a method of archiving CSRC public programs and providing access to Chicano-Latino research and scholarship, the CSRC added to its YouTube channel 24 videos of CSRC-hosted public programs and special class events (i.e.; performances, guest speakers), as well as miscellaneous research material. By the end of the 2014-15 year, these videos received a combined record 7,313 views.

- The CSRC successfully conducted a national search for a new CSRC Librarian. Out of four finalists, one candidate was unanimously recommended for the position by the search committee. The new CSRC Librarian, Xaviera Flores, MSLIS, joined the CSRC in late June 2016.

- The CSRC received $446,290 in new grants and gifts for various projects and initiatives.

- The Andrew W. Mellon Undergraduate Curatorial Fellowship Program welcomed its third class of fellows, three of whom attend UCLA. With its national office at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art (LACMA), the program provides specialized training in the curatorial field to students from historically underrepresented groups across the United States. This program is overseen by CSRC director Chon A. Noriega and LACMA deputy director Nancy Thomas.
II. DEVELOPMENT REPORT

IV. ACADEMIC AND COMMUNITY RELATIONS

Public Programs

The CSRC’s public programs, which are always presented free of charge, reflect the center’s research interests, outreach goals, and mission to inform and provide campus, local, national, and international audiences access to CSRC projects and resources. Through community partnerships, community forums, major conferences, artists’ presentations, museum exhibitions, faculty exchanges, lectures, and academic job talks, CSRC events connect the center and the university as a whole to the broader Chicano-Latino community. In addition, the CSRC regularly pursues event co-sponsorship opportunities with other university departments to increase campus awareness of the CSRC, and to encourage intellectual and programmatic exchanges. Finally, tours of the Library and its resources are regularly provided to UCLA students, as well as students visiting from other universities, colleges, and high schools. A majority of CSRC public programs take place in the CSRC Library; during each event, the Library remains open to students, researchers, and the general public.

In 2015-16, the CSRC organized and co-sponsored 63 public programs that were seen by over 30,505 people internationally. Approximately 1,885 people attended CSRC-sponsored and co-sponsored conferences, symposia, and workshops; 1,457 people attended CSRC-sponsored and co-sponsored lectures, book talks, and panels; and 27,163 people attended CSRC-sponsored open houses, special events, film screenings, and exhibitions. CSRC on-campus events attracted 5,322 attendees; off-campus events brought in 25,183 attendees.

As a method of archiving CSRC public programs and providing access to Chicano-Latino research and scholarship, in 2015-16 the CSRC added to itsYouTube channel 24 videos of CSRC-hosted public programs and special class events (i.e.; performances, guest speakers), as well as miscellaneous research material. By the end of the 2015-16 year, these videos received a combined record 7,313 views.

In addition to YouTube, other CSRC social media participation continued to grow. In 2015-16 the CSRC added an Instagram account to complement to its two Facebook pages, Twitter account, and website, which underwent “design refresh” this year.

V. LIBRARY AND ARCHIVE

A. Library
The UCLA Chicano Studies Research Center Library serves students, faculty, and researchers worldwide seeking information on Chicana/o and Latina/o history and culture. With access as one of its mandates, since 1969 the CSRC Library has made its holdings accessible to users from UCLA as well as local and international communities and institutions. As of 2015-16, the library’s holdings consist of over 145,000 objects. These include 120,000 digital objects, 179 archival and special collections, over 17,000 books and monographs, 1,500 periodical titles (with varying numbers of issues), and 2,500 microfilm containing theses and dissertations plus Chicano/Latino newspapers, some from the nineteenth century. Holdings also include over 1,000 audio items and 300 films (VHS, DVD, and 35mm). The archive’s collection of original prints and posters exceeds 1,000 and the archive has 1,500 vertical files.

The CSRC Library also serves as a crucial cultural and community-relations space. Panels, conferences, classroom instructions, book presentations, and film screenings regularly take place there (see Public Programs). These programs are always free of charge and the Library remains open to researchers and the general public during these presentations. Exhibition space allows for the regularly rotated, curated exhibits that highlight the CSRC’s archival holdings. In the 2015-16 academic year, two exhibits were installed in the Library.

Each year, in addition to sponsoring courses, guest speakers, and workshops, the CSRC participates in service learning and extracurricular training and internship programs. In 2015-16, the CSRC participated in the Getty Multicultural Summer Internship Program. Finally, the CSRC hires several work-study students each year to assist with processing collections and other Library maintenance tasks assigned by the Management Services Officer.

Library Attendance and Services

In 2015-16, over 2,500 people visited the CSRC Library: 434 in the fall, 581 in the winter, and 1,253 in the spring and early summer. This represents an increase in number of approximately 1,500 visitors compared to the preceding academic year. These numbers do not include attendees of public programs in the library. Reasons for the attendance increase may include new printing options, better work space for students and researchers, and an increase in course reserves. Reference services were provided throughout the year to research fellows, undergraduate and graduate students, non-UCLA faculty, and UCLA faculty representing a range of departments, including Information Studies, Art History, Film & TV, Chicana/o Studies, Gender Studies, Social Welfare, Public Health, History, Education, Ethnomusicology, Law, Medicine, Anthropology, Sociology, and LGBT Studies, among others.

Reference Services

In 2015-16, reference services were handled by part-time staff member Jason Lowder due to the absence of a librarian. No metrics were kept this year. (Lowder completed the Library Technology Certificate Program at Pasadena City College in May 2016.) The Library offers reference services to the UCLA community and to outside researchers. Patrons request on-site, email, and telephone assistance; the amount of time expended on each person can range from fifteen minutes to several hours. Students receive assistance with papers, projects, theses, and dissertations in the humanities, social sciences, health and medicine, and the arts. Personalized information assistance is offered electronically and on a walk-in or appointment basis. Reference services are also provided to all CSRC fellows, grantees, and visiting scholars as well as faculty and students from other colleges and universities.
In addition, in 2015-16 the Library received 59 unique archival research requests. The Library supports researchers both locally and internationally in their research utilizing CSRC special collections. The Archives Manager secures collections for researchers and provides guidance throughout their CSRC research activities.

Bibliographic Assistance

The Library staff has developed an information-seeking sequence for students who need to build their research skills. First, they are directed to a subject encyclopedia to gain a basic knowledge of the subject. After they scan and read the encyclopedia article they move to other resources in the following order: vertical files; the Chicano Database and other relevant databases (where they also learn to differentiate between a book, an essay in an anthology, and a journal article); and the UCLA catalog, where they locate materials they have identified while following the sequence. When appropriate, students are taught how to use Google to locate material that may not yet be in print (for example, debates on current legislative propositions). The staff explains criteria to assess the validity of any website.

Patronage

- Fall: 434
- Winter: 581
- Spring: 1,097
- Summer: 156

Service Learning and Internships

The CSRC participates as a “service learning site” for graduate students in the UCLA Department of Information Studies. This opportunity presents itself every spring quarter as part of the coursework required for the course IS 201: Ethics, Diversity, and Change in Information Professions. This program was on hold this year during the search for a new librarian. For further experience, internships are available through the Graduate School of Education and Information and the Getty, which hosts a multicultural internship program for undergraduates and the CSRC is regularly accepted as an internship site.

Whether through coursework or an internship program, students who work in the CSRC Library are exposed to the richness and complexity of servicing patrons, maintaining collections, and providing access to an ethnic studies library and archive.

B. Archive

Grant-funded archival projects play a significant role in the mission and efficacy of the CSRC. In addition, because the CSRC has become one of the largest repositories of Chicano-Latino archival materials in the world, the CSRC has increasingly received loan requests for local, national, and international exhibitions. (See loans for publications and broadcast productions under Appendix A: Media Coverage.) In 2015-16, CSRC archival collections were utilized in five museum exhibitions. The CSRC also regularly provides images of works in its archival collections for reprinting in non-CSRC Press publications.

Archival Projects

CSRC archival projects consist of collaborative, funded projects that seek to identify, preserve, and make accessible the work of Chicano and Latino individuals and organizations. The CSRC is routinely applying for grants to support these projects. The major CSRC archival projects of 2015-16 were:

- Providing Access to Mexican American Social History in Los Angeles, 1960s and 1970s
  Complementing the three-year archival project Documenting & Preserving the Post-WWII Generation of Mexican Americans in Los Angeles funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) for 2012-15, the NEH awarded the CSRC a new three-year grant (2015-18) to help the center arrange, describe, and digitize seven archival collections of newspapers, magazines, personal papers, correspondence, photographs, and other materials as part of a project specific to the Mexican Americans in Los Angeles in the 1960s and ’70s. The seven collections are La Raza Newspaper and Magazine Records, Sal Castro Papers, Moctesuma Esparza Papers, Luis Garza Papers, Rosalio Muñoz Papers, David Sanchez Papers, and Esteban Torres Papers. The seven collections total approximately 506 linear feet of materials and include nearly 25,000 photographic negatives.

- La Raza Newspaper and Magazine Records: Providing Access to the Mexican American Civil Rights Movement
  With support from the Getty Foundation, the John Randolph Haynes and Dora Haynes Foundation, and the Council on Library and Information Resources (CLIR) this project is dedicated to preserving, describing, digitizing, and making publicly available a collection of approximately 21,000 photographic negatives documenting the Mexican descent community of Los Angeles between 1967 and 1977. These long inaccessible negatives were recovered in 2013, and represent an unprecedented decade-long photographic project involving eighteen photographers associated with La Raza. The bilingual publication – a tabloid newspaper from 1967-1970 and a magazine from 1970-1977 – developed in the context of community-based journalism that sought broad documentation of events, achievements, and issues reflecting readers’ lives. Since La Raza could only print a small portion of photographs, this collection constitutes a rare and broad visual record of the community during this period. In 2015-16, the processing team worked on scanning all photos and negatives, worked with La Raza photographers to identify photographic authorship and content, and began inputting metadata for each photograph. The CSRC also began exploring the platforms to display the materials as a complement to those offered by the UCLA Digital Library.

- LGBT/Mujeres Initiative
  Over the course of a grant from the Ford Foundation that concluded in 2012, the CSRC Library acquired and processed seventeen new LGBT and women’s collections, developed a guide/manual related to LGBT and women’s community archiving, conducted six conference presentations and workshops in six states, published one book and went into production on a second. Materials from these and related collections were featured in four exhibitions during the Getty’s Pacific Standard Time initiative in Los Angeles: at LACMA, the Fowler Museum at UCLA, the Museum of Contemporary Art, the Museum of Latin American Art in Long Beach, and Williams College Museum of Art (2011-12). In December of 2012 the CSRC relaunched the initiative with a donor event in the CSRC Library and new collections have since been added. In 2015-16, materials from these collections were lent to the following exhibitions: A Gathering of Angels: Studio Artists from 1985-2015. Angels Gate Cultural Center, San Pedro, California (November 7 - December 20, 2015) and Drama Queer, Roundhouse Community Arts and Recreation Centre, Vancouver, BC (June 21-30, 2016).

Strachwitz Frontera Collection Digitization Project

With support from the Los Tigres Del Norte Foundation, in October 2001 the CSRC initiated the digital preservation of the Arhoolie Foundation’s Strachwitz Frontera Collection, the largest repository of Mexican and Mexican American popular and vernacular recordings in existence; many of the recordings are one of a kind. Since then, the CSRC has been steadily helped digitize the collection, which now consists of over 100,000 recordings. In 2005, contents of the Frontera Collection became available for public listening via the UCLA domain; in 2013-14, the CSRC in collaboration with the Arhoolie Foundation and the UCLA Digital Library began work on a new, more interactive, visual, and user-friendly website for the collection. The new site had a soft launch in Spring 2015. In 2015-16, the CSRC worked with the Digital Library to develop easier sharing of site content through social media. Agustín Gurza, author of the 2012, award-winning CSRC Press publication and reference guide to the collection, The Arhoolie Foundation’s Strachwitz Frontera Collection of Mexican and Mexican American Recordings (Chicano Archives, volume 6), serves as the site’s blog editor and receives compensation through the Los Tigres del Norte Fund that is managed by the CSRC. The CSRC and Digital Library are currently exploring the possibility of making the catalog fully accessible to all UC domains.

New and Updated Collections

In 2015-16, four (4) new special collections comprising 171.5 linear feet, plus one (1) historic artwork and (1) mounted offset duplicate of it (7 linear feet each) were donated to the CSRC Library, increasing the number of special collections held by the CSRC to 179. In addition to new collections, the CSRC also acquired 29.5 linear feet in new materials pertaining to five (5) existing archival collections.

The CSRC Library team is consistently processing and creating online finding aids for its collections. The CSRC is a contributor to the widely accessible Online Archive of California (OAC). The OAC is part of the California Digital Library and provides a searchable database of finding aids to primary sources and digital facsimiles. In 2015-16, seven (7) collections with their corresponding OAC finding aids were fully processed or updated and made available to the public (213 linear feet of material).

C. Library Outreach
The Library provides a space for scholastic activities within UCLA. As such we foster collaborations with UCLA instructors. The library also welcomes students and school groups from outside UCLA. As part of those collaborations, the CSRC Librarian teaches students about best practices pertaining to research, archiving, and accessing information.

UCLA Class Visits to CSRC Library

Spring Quarter 2016

“Art and Literature of the Chicano Movement”
On April 28, the CSRC welcomed students in the undergraduate cluster seminar “Art and Literature of the Chicano Movement” to explore the CSRC’s poster archives. Students drew on works in the collection to develop presentations on insurgent consciousness and rasquachismo. Of particular interest to them were posters produced at Self Help Graphics & Art. The seminar was taught by Renee Hudson, doctoral candidate in the Department of English.

On August 7 the CSRC Library welcomed thirty-two high school seniors (class of 2016) from Santa Ana College’s Academic Talent Search program, a federally funded TRiO program that is designed to serve low-income prospective first-generation college students. CSRC director Chon A. Noriega spoke to the students about the CSRC Library, its value to students, and his own struggles and achievements as a first-generation college graduate. CSRC communications and academic programs assistant Andrea Vargas, also a first-generation college graduate, provided advice and guidance based on her own experiences during her college years.

- East Los Angeles College / UCLA CCP
On August 19, Carlos M. Haro, CSRC assistant director emeritus, welcomed to the CSRC twenty students from East Los Angeles College participating in a program developed by the UCLA Center for Community College Partnerships (CCCP). The goal of the program is to help students transfer from community college to UCLA. Haro, who is also adjunct faculty in Chicana/o studies and coordinator for the CSRC’s Latina/o Education Research Project, spoke about the history of the CSRC, and Rebecca Epstein, communications and academic programs officer, shared information about CSRC Press and the CSRC’s public programs and fellowship opportunities.
Winter Quarter 2015

- UCLA CCP
  In collaboration with the UCLA Center for Community College Partnerships, on January 14 the CSRC welcomed twenty-eight students from local community colleges to spend the morning learning about UCLA and its admissions process for transfer students. Approximately 85 percent of the students attending were Chicana/o students. Connie Heskett, MSO, and Rebecca Epstein, communications and academic programs officer, gave presentations on the CSRC and the services and work-study opportunities offered by the library. Students also received copies of CSRC Press books and journals.

- Boyle Heights College Track Program
  On March 21 eight high school students participating in the Boyle Heights College Track (CT) program visited the CSRC Library. Carlos Haro, CSRC assistant director emeritus, and Andrea Vargas, communications and academic programs assistant, spoke with the students about the history of the CSRC and its academic resources for undergraduates. CT is a ten-year program that provides underserved students with comprehensive academic support, leadership training, financial and college advising, and scholarships through high school and college. The visit to UCLA was designed to introduce students to a university campus and student life. The first cohort of Boyle Heights CT scholars to enter college will begin their undergraduate studies this fall.

- GEAR UP Program
  On March 23 a group of forty-five underrepresented low-income LAUSD high school students in the Gaining Early Awareness and Readiness for Undergraduate Programs (GEAR UP) visited the CSRC Library. Andrea Vargas, communications and academic programs assistant, talked about the CSRC’s projects and programs, the value of getting involved with student organizations and leadership positions on campus, and the importance of mentorship.

External Commitments of the CSRC Librarian

As stated, there was no CSRC Librarian in 2015-16.

D. Library Exhibitions

CSRC Library exhibitions draw from and bring awareness to the Library’s special collections. They are available for public viewing during regular Library hours. Beginning in 2012-13, at least one exhibition each year is student-curated. In 2015-16, the Library showcased the following exhibitions:

- The Grace Montañez Davis Papers (October 13 - December 18, 2015)

- Mexican Surf and Turf: Mexicano Cultural Continuity in West Los Angeles Though Surfing and Soccer curated by Leonard Melchor, PhD, CSRC Visiting Scholar (February 26 - June 10, 2016)

(To see Library exhibition attendance figures, see ACADEMIC AND COMMUNITY RELATIONS > Public Programs)
VI. PRESS

The UCLA Chicano Studies Research Center Press continues to lead in production of scholarship on the Chicano and Latino populations in the United States. Since 1970, our publications have reached a state, national, and international audience, helping shape opinion, policy, and research. The CSRC Press is now one of the most active presses in the University of California system. In the 2015-16 fiscal year, the CSRC Press completed one printed book project, one policy brief, one research report, ten issues of the CSRC electronic newsletter, and two issues of Aztlán: A Journal of Chicano Studies. All publications are described below.

The CSRC Press has received thirty book awards since 2009, two journal article awards, and in 2011, a press-wide Outstanding Latino/a Cultural Award in Literary Arts or Publications from the American Association of Hispanics in Higher Education.

Staff

Charlene Villaseñor Black assumed the editorship of Aztlán: A Journal of Chicano Studies in January 2016, taking over from Chon A. Noriega, who had held the position since July 1996. Rebecca Frazier has been the senior editor of the CSRC Press since 2008. Doctoral candidate Heather Birdsall is the assistant editor of Aztlán; graduate student Joanna Reyes Walton is the book review coordinator for Fall 2016. William Morosi has been the freelance typesetter and designer since 1998 and Cathy Sunshine has been the freelance copyeditor since 2000. With the exception of the senior editor, all CSRC Press employees serve part-time.

The press has an excellent record of involving faculty and students, both from UCLA and across the country. The largest participation of faculty and student involvement is through Aztlán: A Journal of Chicano Studies. Faculty serve on the editorial board and as peer reviewers, and faculty and students publish their work in the journal. While some journals remain fairly insular, Aztlán involves more people outside of UCLA than within: in the 2015-16 fiscal year, 75 percent of board members, and 95 percent of reviewers and authors were from outside UCLA.

Earnings

In 2015–16, the press earned $85,057 and spent $98,049. The spending drew upon a surplus from previous years that the CSRC is required to spend down.

Aztlán

Aztlán: A Journal of Chicano Studies continues to be the leading journal in the field. It appears twice a year in print and is available online through Ingentaconnect, an online hosting site. Subscribers have full access to all issues, and non-subscribers may purchase single articles.
The CSRC Press is successful in distributing Aztlán beyond the campus and California. In 2015-16 the journal had 279 institutional subscribers (268 domestic and 11 international) and 18 individual subscribers. This is an increase when compared to last year, when there were 269 institutional subscribers and 8 individual subscribers.

In 2015-16 the Press published Aztlán volumes 40.2 and 41.1 (for Tables of Contents, see Appendix B).

Aztlán Submissions

Essay submissions have experienced a decrease when compared to last year’s level (54, compared with 57). We have also seen a slight decrease in overall submissions, from 107 last year to 100 this year (see table 1).

Our current rejection rate for peer-reviewed academic essays is around 84 percent (regardless of the ratio used), which is an appropriate percentage. Since the reviews, dossier pieces, and communiqués are generally solicited, we do not include them in our official rejection rate statistics. These figures may be slightly off, however, as many of the essays are still in process. The journal is getting more selective: Aztlán’s long-term peer-reviewed rejection rate is somewhere between 56 and 71 percent (see Table 2).

*13 essays were resubmissions, compared to 21 resubmissions received in 2014-15. Number of essays received does not reflect essays that were revised and resubmitted multiple times in 2015-16.
 This number was lower than usual because we had a large backlog of reviews submitted prior to July 2015 that we wanted to publish.
 This includes authors who either declined to submit updated manuscripts following our feedback or didn’t respond.
*Number does not include books that have been assigned for review, but for which authors have not yet submitted reviews.

Books Completed in 2015-16

Books Reprinted in 2015-16

Books in Print

Luis Cruz Azaceta (A Ver: Revisioning Art History, volume 10, August 2014) Alejandro Anreus presents the first full-length monograph on the life and work of Cuban American Luis Cruz Azaceta, whose highly personal, highly individualistic art explores the imbalances and abuses of social and political power. Anreus notes that the theme of exile is ever-present in the artist’s work, which is striking in its constant experimentation and reinvention.

Tradition and Transformation: Chicana/o Art from the 1970s through the 1990s (May 2015). This collection of essays by Shifra Goldman presents a wide range of writings by the pioneering art historian, who died in 2011. The volume is edited and introduced by Charlene Villaseñor Black.

Ricardo Valverde (A Ver: Revisioning Art History, volume 8, August 2013) Ricardo Valverde dedicated himself to photographing East Los Angeles, determined to disrupt the history of image making. Valverde’s street photography and portraiture, work done primarily in the 1970s and 1980s, offered a powerful counternarrative. In this consideration of Valverde’s life and work, author Ramón García traces the photographer’s career from his early investment in a documentary style to the development of an expressionistic aesthetic. Garcia’s analyses reveal the modernist and postmodernist impulses that propelled Valverde’s art, as well as Valverde’s resolution Pepón Osorio is an internationally recognized artist whose richly detailed work challenges the stereotypes and misconceptions that shape our view of social institutions and human relationships. The colorful, often riotous, installations for which he is best known are constructed from found objects and objects that he customizes or creates. With a wry sense of humor he probes sober topics: prison life, domestic violence, AIDS, poverty. As he addresses difficult themes such as race and gender, death and survival, and alienation and belonging, Osorio asks his audience to reconsider their assumptions and biases. Author Jennifer González shows that although Osorio draws on his Puerto Rican background and the immigrant experience to create his work, his artistic statements bridge geographical barriers and class divides.

The first edition of this book, which was edited by Colin Gunckel, sold out several years ago. The second edition reprints Kristen Guzmán’s and Chon A. Noriega’s essays and the finding aid from the first edition, and it includes new material that deepens and extends the history and analysis presented in the original volume. New to the second edition is an essay by Colin Gunckel that explores the organization’s interventions in the conception of art and community and a chapter by Colin Gunckel, Armando Durón (president of the board of directors from 2005 through 2008), and Evonne Gallardo (current executive director) that brings the organization’s history up to date. Also new is an interview, conducted by Colin Gunckel and Karen Mary Davalos, of five artists who were involved with Self Help Graphics in its early years.

Ricardo Valverde: Experimental Sights, 1971–1996, an exhibition at Vincent Price Art Museum (VPAM) at East Los Angeles College in collaboration with the UCLA Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC), is the first survey of Valverde’s extensive body of work. A resident of Los Angeles, Valverde worked in diverse styles and from multiple perspectives. His photographs and multimedia pieces focused on many subjects, including families (particularly his own), neighborhoods, and cultural practices in Los Angeles and in Mexico. The essays presented in this catalog—by Cecilia Fajardo-Hill, guest curator of the exhibition, Armando Cristeto Patiño, and Jesse Lerner—explore the different aspects of Valverde’s art and argue for his importance as an experimental artist who ranged far beyond the documentary aspects of photography. The volume opens with a foreword by Karen Rapp, VPAM director, and Chon A. Noriega, CSRC director, and features forty-two color illustrations that represent Valverde’s innovative artistry.

Oral History and Communities of Color (January 2013)
Each of the five essays in Oral History and Communities of Color considers a different racial/ethnic community: Asian American, American Indian, Latino, African American, and Muslim. Interviews with two scholars who integrate oral history into their research touch on oral history’s theoretical foundation in cultural anthropology, particular considerations for collecting oral histories in specific communities, and the importance of including the narrator’s personal story. Edited by Teresa Barnett and Chon A. Noriega with essays by Teresa Barnett, Karen Mary Davalos, Felicia Schanche Hodge, Karen L. Ishizuka, Nancy Raquel Mirabal, Robert A. Nakamura, Chon A. Noriega, Horacio N. Roque Ramírez, Susan Rose, and Irum Shiekh.
VIVA!, founded in 1987, promoted the creative and artistic talent of gay and lesbian Latinos and Latinas in Los Angeles. Although the AIDS epidemic provided the impetus for the organization—and although it is most widely recognized for Teatro VIVA!, its AIDS outreach project—VIVA!’s influence extended to Latina/o art, literature, and performance. Author Robb Hernandez draws on the VIVA! Records at the UCLA Chicano Studies Research Center to present this first comprehensive history of the organization and to analyze its importance for Latina/o art and culture in Los Angeles.

L.A. Xicano
This catalog, edited by Chon A. Noriega, Terezita Romo, and Pilar Tompkins Rivas, documents L.A. Xicano, four interrelated exhibitions that explored the diverse artistic contributions of Mexican American and Chicano artists to American art and to Los Angeles’s artistic development since 1945. The volume’s six illustrated essays examine the life and works of the dozens of artists and photographers whose works are displayed and document the important role of artists’ groups. The authors consider these artists and their work in the context of the turbulent history of the time, particularly the development of the Chicano Movement. A plate section features works from each of the four exhibitions.

In this companion volume for the L.A. Xicano exhibitions, Sandra de la Loza presents a wry commentary on the Chicano history of Los Angeles. Using the format of the photographic essay, she documents the exploits of the Pocho Research Society, an organization dedicated to commemorating sites in Los Angeles that are of importance to the Chicano community but that have been erased by urban development or neglect.

The Arhoolie Foundation’s Strachwitz Frontera Collection of Mexican and Mexican American Recordings (Chicano Archives, volume 6)
The Strachwitz Frontera Collection is the largest repository of commercially produced Mexican and Mexican American vernacular recordings in existence. Agustín Gurza explores the Frontera Collection from different viewpoints, discussing genre, themes, and some of the thousands of performers whose recordings are archived. Essays by Jonathan Clark and Chris Strachwitz round out the volume.

The Oscar Castillo Papers, 1995–2002 (The Chicano Archives, volume 5)
Photographer Oscar Castillo has documented the Chicano community in Los Angeles and South Texas since the late 1960s. This set of essays, edited by Colin Gunckel, considers the social, political, historical, and aesthetic dimensions of his body of work. Illustrated with 47 black-and-white figures and 16 color plates.

Floricanto en Aztlán (second edition)
In this groundbreaking collection, first published in 1971, Alurista presented a new and essentially Chicano poetic language and called on la raza to celebrate their heritage and to find their political voice. This second edition includes a new preface by the poet and reproduces the original illustrations by Judithe Hernández.

Malaquías Montoya (A Ver: Revisioning Art History, volume 6)
Working in a variety of media—from drawings and paintings to murals and the silkscreen prints for which he is best known—Malaquías Montoya has pursued a singular artistic vision for more than four decades. As a cofounder of the Mexican-American Liberation Art Front in 1968, his work inspired a generation of artists and activists. In this first major book on the artist, Terezita Romo offers a comprehensive exploration of Montoya’s work.

Carmen Lomas Garza (A Ver: Revisioning Art History, volume 5)
Widely known for works that celebrate the traditions of her family and her South Texas Latino community, Carmen Lomas Garza has been active as a painter, printmaker, muralist, and children’s book illustrator since the 1970s. Constance Cortez shows that through her art Garza challenges the legacy of repression while establishing the folk art idiom, as employed by nonwhite and immigrant artists, as a vital element of American modernism.

The Latino Theatre Initiative/Center Theatre Group Papers, 1980–1996 (The Chicano Archives, volume 4)
Established in 1992 by Los Angeles’s Center Theatre Group, the Latino Theatre Initiative sought to diversify audiences by diversifying theatrical programming. The program resulted in the production of eleven new main-stage plays at the Mark Taper Forum. Chantal Rodríguez presents the first extended historical account of the program.

The Mexican Museum of San Francisco Papers, 1971–2006 (The Chicano Archives, volume 3) The Mexican Museum of San Francisco was founded in 1975 by artist Peter Rodríguez to “foster the exhibition, conservation, and dissemination of Mexican and Chicano art and culture for all peoples.” Karen Mary Davalos traces the origins of the museum and explores how its mission has been shaped by its visionary artist-founder, local art collectors and patrons, Mexican art and culture, and the Chicano movement.

María Brito (A Ver: Revisioning Art History, volume 4)
A painter, sculptor, and installation artist, María Brito is best known for intricate mixed-media constructions that embody narratives of displacement and loss. A member of the Miami Generation, a group of Cuban-born Americans artists who emerged in the late 1970s, Brito employs a personal iconography inspired by her identity as a woman, a mother, a Cuban exile, a naturalized American, and a Catholic. Her works include large complex installations, self-portraits dense with symbolism, and clay sculptures that combine allegory and caricature in a wry critique of art, politics, and everyday life. Each is an autobiographical statement situated within the artist’s profound fluency in the history of Western art. Juan A. Martín ez, who focuses on Brito’s unique interplay of the personal and the universal, highlights her as an artist who challenges cultural, social, and artistic barriers.

Celia Alvare Roñ Muñoz (A Ver: Revisioning Art History, volume 3)
Born in El Paso in 1937, Celia Alvarez Muñoz grew up amid competing cultures, languages, and value systems along the U.S.-Mexico border. In this in-depth study, Roberto Tejada gives an account of the artist through biography and cultural history, in conjunction with more traditional art history and close visual analysis. As both poet and photography historian, Tejada offers a critical corollary to Alvarez Muñoz’s artistic practice: while the poet engages the arbitrariness of language, the photography historian engages the indexical nature of the image. In straddling these modes, Celia Alvarez Muñoz introduces us to an image-text artist whose art explores the first glances and misread signs where cultures meet and the stories that they tell about the history of American society, culture, and modern art.

The second edition of the Chicano Studies Reader brings this best-selling anthology up to date. Five additional essays address topics that have drawn increasing attention in the journal over the past decade, including cross-disciplinary studies, investigations of mass media and public culture, and explorations of the intersection of race, sexuality, and citizenship. These essays correspond to the themes that organize the original set of twenty-essays and introductions: Decolonizing the Territory, Performing Politics, Configuring Identities, and Remapping the World. The revised edition documents the foundation of Chicano studies, testifies to its broad disciplinary range, and explores its continuing development.

Yolanda M. López (A Ver: Revisioning Art History, volume 2)
In this groundbreaking overview of Yolanda M. López’s life and career, Karen Mary Davalos traces the artist’s participation in Bay Area activism in the late 1960s and her subsequent training in conceptual practices. Davalos explores how López’s experiences informed her art, which ranges from posters to portraiture and the highly influential Guadalupe Series to later installations. López has consistently challenged predominant modes of Latino and Latina representation, proposing new models of gender, racial, and cultural identity. Yolanda M. López reveals the complexity of the artist’s work over time and illuminates the importance of her contributions to Chicana/o art, Chicana feminism, conceptual art, and the politics of representation. This is the second book published in the A Ver: Revisioning Art History series.

The Fire of Life: The Robert Legorreta-Cyclona Collection (The Chicano Archives, volume 2)
Robb Hernandez explores Legorreta’s career as the performance artist Cyclona and his influence on the generation of East L.A. artists who emerged during the tumultuous years of the Chicano movement, then assesses the CSRC’s collection in terms of its value to researchers. Correspondence, artwork, photographs, and other collection materials document Legorreta’s artistic career and trace the development of the East L.A. arts scene in the late 1960s and early 1970s. Another part of the collection contains more than a thousand LPs, recordings gathered primarily for the Latino imagery on their covers. The balance comprises materials—toys, coupons, ads, and the like—that show how Latino themes have been used to promote consumer products.

Con Safo: The Chicano Art Group and the Politics of South Texas
Ruben C. Cordova traces the history of Con Safo, one of the earliest and most significant of the Chicano art groups, from 1968, when it formed as El Grupo, to the mid-1970s, when Con Safo gradually disbanded. Founded by Felipe Reyes, the original group was made up of six San Antonio artists. The membership of the group evolved over the course of the decade that it was active, with some artists leaving while others joined. Among the members were Mel Casas, Jose Esquivel, Rudy Treviño, and Roberto Ríos. Although the structure of the original group changed, its mission did not: Con Safo was at the forefront of efforts to define possibilities for Chicano art at a time when Chicano culture was largely invisible.

Gronk (A Ver: Revisioning Art History, volume 1)
The first book in the A Ver: Revisioning Art History series, Gronk, written by Max Benavidez, was published in the 2006–07 fiscal year. The A Ver series is a long-term, groundbreaking monograph series on the cultural, aesthetic, and historical contributions of Chicano, Puerto Rican, Cuban, and other U.S. Latino artists. Funders include the Ford Foundation, the Rockefeller Foundation, UC Mexus, and the UCLA Academic Senate. Each book will be devoted to forwarding and preserving the work of Latina/o artists by focusing on one overlooked Latino artist and is distributed by the University of Minnesota Press.

The Art of Healing Latinos: Firsthand Accounts from Physicians and Other Health Advocates
Edited by David Hayes-Bautista and Roberto Chiprut, and first published in 1999, the second edition of this book was produced in 2008. This book is an invaluable resource to those in the healthcare field serving Latinos. It provides an account of the wisdom and experience from health care professionals serving the Chicano/Latino community, including the fields of geriatrics, oncology and psychology. This book bridges the gap between contemporary American medicine and the ancient traditions of Latino culture.

Paths to Discovery: Autobiographies from Chicanas with Careers in Science, Mathematics, and Engineering
Edited by Norma Cantu and published by the CSRC during last fiscal year, this exciting book has great potential for inspiring and guiding Latina/o college students to excel in the sciences. This book consists of autobiographies of Chicanas in successful science career. Today these Chicanas are teaching at major universities, setting public and institutional policy, and pursuing groundbreaking research. Their experiences will encourage young Chicanas/os to study these subjects and to create futures in classrooms, boardrooms, and laboratories across the nation. Sarita E. Brown, President of Excelencia in Education says, “This remarkable collection allows us to follow the career paths of a group of trailblazing Chicanas. Their personal stories become even more important when we consider the need for greater participation of Chicanas in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM).” This book offers moving, compelling, and ultimately inspiring personal stories that illustrate how Chicanas have succeeded despite the considerable challenges facing them and how they are making important contributions to society and their communities.

Las Obreras: Chicana Politics of Work and Family
This edited volume, building upon the best-selling volume 20 of Aztlan: A Journal of Chicano Studies, provides works of seminal importance to understand Chicano politics, feminism, labor, and family.

I Am Aztlan: The Personal Essay in Chicano Studies
This anthology of essays from Aztlan collects author reflections on their experiences as researchers or activists. It is co-edited by Chon A. Noriega and Wendy Belcher and was launched in November 2004. A reprint of this book was done in 2009.

CSRC Oral History Series
The CSRC Oral Histories Series publishes the life narratives of prominent Chicano and Latino figures. Published oral histories were undertaken as part of larger research projects (L.A. Xicano and Latina/o LGBT Initiative) and in tandem with archival collections and library holdings. They are available in PDF format from the CSRC website and are free of charge: http://www.chicano.ucla.edu/publications/oral-histories. Sixteen oral histories have been published so far:

Oral histories in development include those by Joe Holguin, Laura Aguilar, Carmen Herrera, Wayne Healy, and Dora De Larios.

Chicano Cinema and Media Art Series (DVDs)

The Chicano Cinema and Media Art Series was launched in 2004 to preserve and showcase important and rare Chicano films and videos. Nine DVDs had been released as of the end of the 2014-15 fiscal year. Most of these works—the originals are archived in the CSRC Library—were restored and are publically available for the first time through this series. CSRC will begin offering streaming for select DVDs in 2015-16.

Briefs and Reports

Latino Policy & Issues Brief

The Latino Policy & Issues Brief is an occasional publication that highlights policy-related research on Latinos in the United States. The series was launched in 2002. Published in 2015-16:

Racial Microaggressions: What They Are, What They are Not, and Why They Matter, by Lindsay Pérez Huber and Daniel G. Solórzano (Latino Policy and Issues Brief No. 30, November 2015)

CSRC Newsletter

The press continued to assist with the editing and dissemination of the CSRC monthly electronic newsletter, which remains very popular with a subscription of 4,627 people. There is a subscription link on the homepage of the CSRC website for new subscribers and, when signing in at any CSRC public program, event attendees are invited to join the mailing list. Social media has also been useful toward gaining new subscribers. The electronic list continues to be guarded for use only by the CSRC. Announcements for other groups are not sent to the list.

VII. RESEARCH

Support for research comes from external gifts and grants, university programs, and direct CSRC funding. The CSRC initiates in-house research projects and provides grant support for faculty and graduate students from a range of departments across the campus. Numerous in-house projects have broken new ground in their respective fields: sociology, education, media studies, art history, immigration rights, health care access, border issues, public health, and women’s rights.

CSRC research projects for 2015-16 include A Ver: Revisioning Art History, which is documenting and preserving the work of individual Latina/o artists, and the three exhibitions with CSRC involvement that are being researched and organized for Pacific Standard Time: LA/LA for 2017. The CSRC also continued its efforts with the Latinos and Economic Security Project and the Chicano Education Research Project.

Research projects for 2015-16 were:

- A Ver: Revisioning Art History
- The Chicano Education Research Project
- Pacific Standard Time: LA/LA
- Exhibition: Home: So Different, So Appealing, organized by the CSRC
- Exhibition: LA RAZA, utilizing CSRC collections and with an advisory board and organized by the CSRC and catalog by CSRC Press
- Exhibition: Laura Aguilar: Show and Tell, utilizing CSRC collections and catalog by CSRC Press

Project Descriptions

- A Ver: Revisioning Art History
  Principal Investigator: Chon A. Noriega, Professor, Film & Television

  Description: This long-term research project and monograph series focuses on the cultural, aesthetic, and historical contributions of Chicano, Cuban American, Puerto Rican, and other U.S.-based Latino artists. The project has commissioned writers for books on the following artists: Judy Baca, María Brito, María Magdalena Campos Pons, Rafael Ferrer, Carmen Lomas Garza, Gronk, Yolanda López, Amalia Mesa-Bains, Jose Montoya, Malaquías Montoya, Celia Alvarez Muñoz, Raphael Montañez Ortiz, Pepón Osorio, Freddy Rodríguez, and Juan Sánchez. The A Ver monographs are structured to have a broad impact within the humanities. The CSRC develops teachers’ guides that complement each A Ver volume and are keyed to national assessment standards in visual arts, language arts, and history and the social sciences. Each A Ver volume covers three registers: biography, historical context, and visual analysis of works that are representative of the artist’s career. In addition to the scholarly text, each book has color illustrations, a comprehensive bibliography, an exhibition history, and an index. The overall goal is to establish the fundamental scholarly building blocks for this emerging area of study. In 2014-15, the milestone tenth volume in the series was published: Luis Cruz Azaceta by Alejandro Anreus (August 2014). In 2015-16, the CSRC continued production on eight (8) new titles with the release of Judith Baca by Anna Indych-López anticipated for 2016-17.

The A Ver National Advisory Board consists of faculty and curator participants: Alejandro Anreus, Professor, Art History, William Patterson University; Gil Cardenas, Professor, Notre Dame University; Karen Mary Davalos, Professor, Chicana/o Studies, Loyola Marymount University; Henry Estrada, Senior Manager, Public Art San Antonio; Jennifer González, Associate Professor, Art History, UC Santa Cruz; Rita González, Curator, Los Angeles County Museum of Art; Colin Gunckel, A Ver Associate Editor and Assistant Professor, Department of American Culture, University of Michigan; Kellie Jones, Assistant Professor, History of Art and African American Studies, Yale University; Mari Carmen Ramirez, Curator, Latin American Art, Museum of Fine Arts, Houston; Yasmin Ramirez, Research Fellow City University of New York; and Terezita Romo, Independent Researcher and Curator.

- Chicano Education Research Project
  Principal Investigator: Carlos Manuel Haro, CSRC Assistant Director Emeritus

Description: This research project on Chicano education and history, with a focus on California, covers the 1930s to the present. The historical research includes accessing archives at UCLA libraries, including special collections in the CSRC Library and Archive, surveying monographs, academic journals, and newspapers, and searching the Internet. A series of coordinated research reports have been released as part of the Chicano education conferences sponsored by the CSRC. In 2015-16, the CSRC, in collaboration with the UCLA Graduate School of Education and Information Sciences, organized the milestone tenth annual CSRC Latina/o Education Summit: Ten Years of the Latina/o Education Pipeline. The annual education summit reflects the CSRC’s commitment to Chicano and Latino education issues. A CSRC Research Report and Latino Policy and Issues Brief were published in conjunction with the conference (see Press).
• Latinos and Economic Security
  Principal Investigator: Fernando Torres-Gil, Professor and Associate Dean, UCLA School of Public Affairs

Description: As part of a longstanding collaborative effort between the CSRC and the UCLA School of Public Affairs Center for Policy Research on Aging and the USC Ethel Percy Andrus Gerontology Center, the CSRC has contributed to research, analysis, and reports on economic security for the Latino baby boomers. In 2015-16, LES project received additional funding from the Ford Foundation (the CSRC received a sub-award of $32,719 noted in the Development Report), allowing CSRC researchers to conduct focus groups and surveys at senior assisted-living facilities in Orange County where the majority of patrons are white and the majority of aids are Latina/o. Approvals for additional IRBs are being sought for interviews in 2016-17. Findings will be presented and published in this or the next year.

• Pacific Standard Time: L.A./L.A.
  Principal Investigator: Chon Noriega, Professor, Film & Television

Description: For the Getty initiative Pacific Standard Time: LA/LA, the CSRC has received research and implementation grants for its exhibition scheduled for display at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. Home—So Different, So Appealing will feature works from the 1950s to the present by U.S. Latino and Latin American artists exploring the idea of “home.” This exhibition will be the first to explore in depth their points of contact; their differences and affinities relative to immigration, dislocation and diaspora; and personal and political repression. Home will include approximately 120 artworks, including painting, sculpture, installation, performance, photography, film/video, and public sculpture by an estimated 40 artists from the largest historic groups—artists of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Dominican and Cuban origin—as well as Latin American artists. This exhibition will then travel to the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston (MFAH). Curators are Chon A. Noriega, director of the UCLA Chicano Studies Research Center and a professor of film and television at the UCLA School of Theater, Film and Television; Mari Carmen Ramirez from MFAH; and Pilar Tompkins Rivas, newly appointed director of the Vincent Price Art Museum. In addition, the CSRC is collaborating on the following two exhibitions: La Raza at the Autry National Center and Laura Aguilar: Show and Tell at the Vincent Price Art Museum at East Los Angeles College. All exhibitions will be mounted in 2017.

Research Supported through CSRC Grant Programs

The CSRC provides research grants and fellowship support for postdoctoral scholars and graduate students, as well as training opportunities, for students through the following:

- IAC-CSRC Research Grant Program
- IAC-CSRC Postdoctoral and Visiting Scholars Program
- IAC Graduate and Predoctoral Fellows Program and CSRC Graduate Internships
- IUPLR-Mellon Dissertation Fellowship Program
The CSRC administers five grant programs that support faculty and student research projects: The Institute of American Cultures (IAC) fellowships and grants program (established in 1986), the Los Tigres del Norte Fund (est. 2001), the Tamar Diana Wilson Fund, and the Carlos M. Haro Education Fund (est. 2008), and the IUPLR-Mellon Dissertation Fellowship Program. These programs have awarded well over $1.5 million since they were established, mostly through competitive grants and fellowships. They provide research opportunities for students and collaborating faculty.

Institute of American Cultures (IAC) Grant Program

As one of the members of the Institute of American Cultures (IAC), an administrative body composed of UCLA’s four ethnic studies research centers, the CSRC participates in the annual cooperative IAC research grant and fellowship program for UCLA faculty, research staff, and students. The CSRC offers graduate and postdoctoral fellowships as well as graduate student and faculty research grants. These are awarded on a competitive basis each year. The IAC is responsible for strengthening and coordinating interdisciplinary research and instruction in ethnic studies with special attention to the four UCLA ethnic studies research centers. In 2015-16, the IAC added the IAC-Parsons Foundation Faculty Research Grant, which provides $2,500 to an eligible faculty-led project at each IAC ethnic studies research center.

The deadline for grant applications is normally the end of April each year. Detailed information on the IAC Grants Program is posted at http://www.iac.ucla.edu/fellowships_research.html.

Since 2001, the CSRC has awarded 115 individual IAC grants, fifty-two to faculty and sixty-three students, totaling $400,955. Grant recipients to date represent a total of twenty-seven departments.

Awarded IAC Grants
There were nine proposals submitted to the CSRC in 2015-16: three from faculty, one was from an IAC postdoctoral scholar, and five were from graduate students. These nine applications requested a total of $62,636.96. The demand for research support underscores the continuing interest in Chicano Studies research, and the need for research grant support from the Institute of American Cultures Research Grant Program.

IAC Faculty Grantees (awarded in 2015-16 for 2016-17)
Maylei Blackwell Chicana/o Studies
Marissa K. López English and Chicana/o Studies
IAC Graduate Student Grantees (awarded in 2015-16 for 2016-17)
Jacqueline Caraves       Chicana/o Studies
Silvia Patricia Rodríguez Vega Chicana/o Studies
Jessica Lynn Stewart                  Political Science

Faculty Grants: Project Descriptions

Maylei Blackwell
Chicana/o Studies
Project: The Politics of Localization: Indigenous Women’s Social Movements in Guerrero and Oaxaca
$8,072 from IAC funds
This project examines how effective transborder movements navigate and negotiate the complex borders of race, class, gender, indigeneity, sexuality, and citizenship status that often shift due to migration. Blackwell argues, “Oaxacan migration to Los Angeles, along with the Mayan diaspora from Guatemala, opens up new productive conversations about the meaning of Latinidad and indigeneity and how indigeneity has been mobilized in the field of Chicana/o Studies.” Based on collaborative research with the Frente Indígena de Organizaciones Binacionales (FIOB) including critical ethnography, participant observation and oral histories, Blackwell will focus her research on organization’s journey toward more equitable leadership structures for women and theorizes the uneven transnational terrains of power over which gender and indigeneity are articulated.

Marissa K. López
English and Chicana/o Studies
Project: The Xicano Future Is Now
$1,910 from IAC funds
Funds will provide support to explore the relationship between human and machine in the work of Adrian Molina, a Denver-based poet, performing artist and activist. López will explore what Molina’s use of technology means for the burgeoning field of “chicanafuturism.” By attending Molina’s workshops and conducting an oral history interview with him, López believes these two dyads—human/machine and performance/text—and their transformations through various media in Molina’s work might ground a theory of ethnic literary arts and the future.

Charlene Villaseñor Black
Art History and Chicana/o Studies
Project: Diez: Ten Artists, Ten Stories
$2,500 from IAC funds – IAC-Parsons Foundation Faculty Research Grant
The IAC-Parsons Foundation Faculty Research Grant has been awarded to support research on the lives of aging Chicana/o artists in East LA and their desire to pass on their knowledge and political commitments to the younger generation. DIEZ will be a feature length film intended to shine a light on major East Los Angeles Chicana/o artists, veteranos of the Chicano activist movement of the 1960s and 1970s, many of whose work remains unknown within mainstream arts institutions. Filming and editing will be led by filmmaker Roberto Oregel. The project objective is to create a new kind of art history, one documented by a filmmaker and one that makes significant contributions as: 1) a scholarly resource, documenting the lives and art of these important but unstudied artists; 2) a pathway to introduce a new generation to this art; and 3) an opportunity to preserve a piece of Los Angeles’s artistic and cultural heritage.

Graduate Student Grants: Project Descriptions

Jacqueline Caraves
Doctoral Candidate
Chicana/o Studies
Project: Transgressing Boundaries: Latinxs Navigating Famil, Labor, and Spirituality
$1,271 from the Tamar Diana Wilson Fund
$2,437 from IAC funds
This study explores the ways in which transgender Latinxs experience the three realms of their lives: family, labor, and spirituality. Through surveys conducted in Southern California and interviews with the queer and trans community, Caraves seeks to explore these sites as places that displace and reject her subjects. In addition, this dissertation project examines how this community makes meaning of the inclusion, exclusion or shades of both that they experience as they transgress multiple boundaries on a daily basis.

Silvia Patricia Rodríguez Vega
Doctoral Candidate
Chicana/o Studies
Project: Healing with Heart: Resilience and Coping with State Neglected Immigrant Children
$2,000 from the Tamar Diana Wilson Fund
$3,480 from IAC funds
This dissertation project examines the experiences of children in immigrant families growing up in harsh conditions by using artistic pedagogies that provide them tools to cope with their daily stressors and identify their risk factors. Vega will work with children, mainly Mexican and some Central and South Americans (age 6-17), in Los Angeles, CA and Phoenix, AZ through a ten-week art curriculum grounded in Community Cultural Development methods and Theater of the Oppressed through their school or local community center. The project’s objective is to bring to light the cultural, emotional, academic, and creative experiences of a vulnerable population.

Jessica Lynn Stewart
Doctoral Candidate
Political Science
$6,000 from IAC funds
This study examines the influence of contextual factors on racial progress attitudes for African-Americans, Latinos, and Whites. Due to labor market shifts over the past three decades that facilitated a “Great Divergence” of American cities along economic and educational lines, Stewart argues racial progress attitudes have become more geographically differentiated over time. Using a series of survey questions related to racialized public policy, discrimination, and improvement in the social position of marginalized groups, this dissertation project seeks to understand how economic restructuring has shaped these racial progress attitudes.

Ariana Valle
Doctoral Candidate
Sociology
Project: Nuevos Destinos, Nuevas Posibilidades?: The Incorporation and Citizenship Experiences of Puerto Ricans in Orlando, Florida
$5,400 from IAC funds
IAC funds have been awarded for the continued study of the contemporary intersection of citizenship, incorporation, and racialization by studying the experiences of Puerto Ricans in Florida. Because Puerto Ricans do not encounter barriers to enter the mainland, and yet, “like other migrants, they cross cultural, linguistic, and political boundaries.” Valle argues that Puerto Ricans are an ideal subject through which to study citizenship, incorporation, and racialization “frameworks.” Valle will interview 130 Puerto Ricans in Orlando in her attempt to examine a set of factors—phenotype, gender, education, and nativity—which has not been previously explored for this group or in this location.

IAC Postdoctoral Fellows (awarded 2015-16 for the next year)*

Vanessa Diaz
Assistant Professor
Department of Communications, CSU Fullerton
$15,000 fellowship
$2,000 research
Project: Book manuscript, “Manufacturing Celebrity: Race, Gender, and the Cultural Politics of Red Carpet and Paparazzi Work.”
This research advances conversations about the power of media producers, even those on the periphery (e.g. paparazzi), in shaping national culture and discourse, and analyzes the motivations behind the decisions of individuals and companies that create celebrity media. Critically, this work also rethinks the racialized invisibility of migrant labor by examining how Latino paparazzi strategically position themselves within a hyper-visible societal realm. Building on anthropologist Hortense Powdermaker’s pioneering work on postwar Hollywood, Diaz’s research will make substantial contributions to the anthropology of media, Latina/o studies, media and communication studies, gender studies, and the burgeoning field of celebrity studies.

Deborah Vargas*
Associate Professor
Department of Ethnic Studies, UC Riverside
$11,670 fellowship
$1,000 research
Project: Book manuscript, “Queer Sabor: Chicano/Latino Impermanence and the Politics of Suciedad.”
For her current book project, “Queer Sabor: Chicano/Latino Impermanence and the Politics of Suciedad,” she theorizes queer socialities or sociedad (partnership, membership) that are sustained through cultural practices and productions of suciedad (a Latino vernacular term for dirtiness, nastiness, and filthiness). Vargas argues that suciedad has persistently fastened itself to social and cultural constructions of Chicana/o and Latina/o genders and sexualities, ranging from the cinematic figure of the Mexican greaser in the early twentieth century to social scientific studies of families in impoverished barrios, to the use of toxic chemical sprays by the US Department of Immigration to assure disease-free Mexican labor. These in turn have produced effective systems of racial pathologization that continue to produce Chicano/Latino femininities and masculinities as dirty and diseased and targets of small- and large-scale containment, displacement, and discipline.

*Deborah Vargas received permission to postpone her residence until Fall 2017.

IUPLR-Mellon Dissertation Fellowship Program
The CSRC was one of five (5) institutions to develop and participate in the new IUPLR-Mellon Fellowship Program of the Inter-University Program for Latino Research. The program supports doctoral candidates in the humanities who are writing dissertations in Latina/o studies and provides mentorship and other professional opportunities to nurture future Latina/o faculty.

IUPLR selects fellows who apply through five designated research centers:

- The Center for Mexican American Studies and the Department of Mexican American and Latina/o Studies at the University of Texas at Austin
- The Chicano Studies Research Center at UCLA
- The CUNY Dominican Studies Institute, The City College of New York
- Centro de Estudios Puertorriqueños at Hunter College, CUNY
- The Latin American and Latino Studies Program at the University of Illinois at Chicago

The fellowship includes a $25,000 stipend and travel support to attend IUPLR conferences and a required two-week summer institute in Chicago. Matriculation fees and health insurance are paid by the home institution, provided that the fellow is in residence.

In 2015-16, the IUPLR Mellon fellowship was offered to Nichole M. Garcia, UCLA Graduate School of Education & Information Studies. Ultimately, Garcia accepted a fellowship at University of Pennsylvania instead, but she remains a member of the IUPLR Mellon community and mentorship program. The funding she would have received from this program will be awarded to an additional UCLA fellow in 2016-17.

Other CSRC Grant Programs

Los Tigres del Norte Fund
In 2000, the CSRC received a commitment for a $500,000 gift from Los Tigres del Norte Foundation to establish a fund for the preservation of Spanish-language music in the United States. Current projects include the digital preservation of the Arhoolie Foundation’s Strachwitz Frontera Collection, the largest repository of Mexican and Mexican American popular and vernacular recordings in existence (see Archival Projects in section III). Other projects have included courses on Spanish-language songwriting, an oral history initiative, development of other collections related to the history of Latin music in Los Angeles, a postdoctoral fellowship (with join support through the IAC), and a book publication, The Arhoolie Foundation’s Strachwitz Frontera Collection of Mexican and Mexican American Music (CSRC Press, 2012). In 2015-16, the fund provided support for editorial work on the collection’s website.
Tamar Diana Wilson Fund
The Tamar Diana Wilson (TDW) Fund was established to support student research and scholarship conducted in the United States, Mexico, and Central America that promotes the study of urban poverty and poverty alleviation as they relate to Latinos and Mexican and Central American indigenous populations. The fund supports the collaborative efforts of the Center for the Study of Urban Poverty (CSUP) and the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC). In 2015-16, the fund was allocated to two graduate student projects for the coming year: Jacqueline Caraves’s Transgressing Boundaries: Latinxs Navigating Family, Labor, and Spirituality; and Silvia Patricia Rodriguez Vega’s Healing with Heart: Resilience and Coping with State Neglected Immigrant Children.

Carlos M. Haro Education Fund
The Carlos M. Haro Education Fund was established at CSRC to support student research in education. No allocations from this fund were made in 2015-16.

Postdoctoral Fellows, Visiting Scholars, and Researchers

Since 2001, the CSRC has vastly increased the number of postdoctoral researchers and visiting scholars residing at the CSRC, hosting over eighty postdoctoral researchers and visiting scholars in a variety of disciplines and from a diverse group of universities across the United States and the world.

Under the auspices of the Institute of American Cultures (IAC), the CSRC offers pre- and postdoctoral fellowships as well as graduate student and faculty research grants. These fellowships are awarded on a competitive basis each year. Since the program’s inception in 1978, one postdoctoral fellowship per year has been awarded through the CSRC. The IAC Postdoctoral Fellowship is available to applicants who have completed their doctorates and are interested in spending one year at the CSRC to conduct further research in ethnic studies with an emphasis in Chicano studies.

In addition, each year the CSRC hosts a select number of visiting scholars and researchers, who conduct research on our premises and maintain an official affiliation with our center. These visiting scholars come from all over the world, and they represent academic diversity to its fullest, with fields of representation including sociology, the arts, education, film and media, and anthropology. Visiting scholars are not funded by the CSRC but are provided with office space, a phone, computer, and UCLA email address, and access to all UCLA libraries.

Postdoctoral fellowships and visiting scholar and researcher appointments are available to applicants from outside of UCLA who have completed their doctorates and are interested in spending up to one year at the CSRC to conduct further research in Chicana/o studies. Graduate and pre-doctoral fellowships and appointments as graduate associates are available to UCLA graduate students only.

Postdoctoral Fellowships and Visiting Scholar Appointments since 2001

Institute of American Cultures Postdoctoral Fellow (Visiting Researcher), 2015-16

Robb Hernández

Other Visiting Scholars and Researchers, 2015-16

Mercedes Álvarez San Román

Álvarez San Román is a doctoral student at Sorbonne University in Paris, France. She has an MA in gender and diversity from Oviedo University, Oviedo, Spain, as well as an MA in journalism. Her dissertation is focused on representations of gender and nation in Spanish contemporary animated films, and she used her time at the CSRC to study how Spanish animation has reacted to the discourses transmitted by representations of Latinos in Hollywood films. Her research includes addressing issues pertaining to immigration, conquest, and territory in the United States, Mexico, and Spain.

Carlos M. Haro

Haro, assistant director emeritus of the CSRC, will continue his multiyear research into Chicano education, oral histories, and comparative and international education. Haro organizes the CSRC’s annual Latina/o Education Summit series, which assesses the critical issues facing Latinas/os in the education pipeline from kindergarten through graduate studies. In 2015-16 he organized the milestone tenth annual education summit and helped produce a public program featuring Professor Mario T. Garcia, whose donation of interview tapes to UCLA Special Collections provides a valuable resource pertaining to education activist Sal Castro.

Juanita Heredia

Heredia holds a doctorate from UCLA in Hispanic languages and literatures and is a professor of Spanish and global languages and cultures at Northern Arizona University. She will used her time as a CSRC visiting scholar to explore the literature and cultural production by U.S. Latinas with South American backgrounds between 1983 and 2014. Her research focused on how these authors have contributed to U.S.–South American relations through their writings on gender and sexuality and their transnational travel. Heredia researched Tatiana de la Tierra Papers, which is part of the CSRC Library’s LGBT and Mujeres Initiative. Heredia was the IAC visiting researcher at the CSRC in 2012-13.

Leonard Melchor

Melchor is an adjunct instructor at East Los Angeles College in the history and Chicana/o studies departments. He employs interdisciplinary research methodologies to unfold the complicated relationship between historical and contemporary cultural practices among Mexicans living in West Los Angeles. His primary research endeavor is to understand the relationship between community formation and cultural activities. His dissertation, “Mexican in Four Images: Cinema, Self and Soccer in the Creation of Real and Imagined Mexicans,” focuses on the first soccer clubs created by Mexicans in West Los Angeles and argues that soccer clubs were crucial to the formation of stable social circles for postwar Mexican immigrants that had exited the Bracero Program and settled in West Los Angeles. His time at the CSRC resulted in a CSRC Library exhibition on surfing and soccer organizations among Mexicans in West Los Angeles.

Lindsay Pérez Huber

Pérez Huber holds a doctorate from the UCLA Graduate School of Education and Information Studies and is an assistant professor of social and cultural analysis of education in the College of Education at California State University, Long Beach. In 2015-16, Pérez Huber served as co-coordinator of the CSRC’s tenth annual Latina/o Education Summit, and co-authored the CSRC Policy and Issues Brief and the CSRC Research Report published in conjunction with the conference (see Press). Pérez Huber assisted with the planning of the first summit in 2006.
