

"Aurora Levins Morales calls for a politics of integrity that recognizes the complicated wholeness of individual and collective lives, and delves among the interwoven roots of multiple oppressions, exposing connections, crafting strategies and uncovering the wellsprings of resilience and joy."

AURORA LEVINS MORALES READING FROM AND DISCUSSING MEDICINE STORIES: ESSAYS FOR RADICALS

Aurora Levins Morales is an internationally known Puerto Rican Jewish feminist writer and lifelong arts-based organizer. She's the author of six books, including Kindling: Writings On the Body; Getting Home Alive; Remedios: Stories of Earth and Iron from the History of Puertorriqueñas; and Telling to Live: Latina Feminist Testimonios. She has been active in many social justice movements and she's an historian who turns history into stories with the intention of changing people and changing the world. She's active in Jews for Racial and Economic Justice, Jewish Voice for Peace, Sins Invalid, and other organizations.

Tuesday, May 14th
St. Albans Episcopal Church, Chapel
580 Hilgard Ave
5-7PM

Co-sponsored by the Gary B. Nash Endowed
Chair, UCLA LGBTQ
Resource Center, UCLA
Luskin Center for History and Policy, Center for the Study of Women and the Chicano Studies Research Center

UCLA Luskin Center for History and Policy

UCLA DEPARTMENT of History

