Reform Without Justice: Latino Migrant Politics and the Homeland Security State

by

Alfonso Gonzales,
assistant professor of political science,
Lehman College, CUNY

Wednesday, February 19, 2014

3:00 – 5:00 p.m.

CSRC Library – 144 Haines Hall

Free; no RSVP required

Placed within the context of the past decade's war on terror and emergent Latino migrant movement, Reform Without Justice addresses the issue of state violence against migrants in the United States. The author argues that Latino migrant activists—especially youth—and their allies can change this reality and help democratize the United States. Joining the discussion will be Leisy Abrego, assistant professor of Chicana and Chicano studies; Alvaro Huerta, CSRC visiting scholar; and Raymond Rocco, associate professor of political science.

A light reception will follow the discussion.

Co-sponsored by the UCLA Latin American Institute and the Department of Political Science
