This is a rare opportunity to meet El Paso-based Willie Varela, who was a pioneer in American avant-garde film. The DVD is the first compilation of works by the Chicano filmmaker, and includes over six hours of material, from silent shorts created in the 1970s to an autobiographical feature-length film completed in 1989.

Varela's films have been screened at venues around the country, including the Museum of Modern Art, the Guggenheim Museum, and the Whitney Museum of American Art.
